These marriages are taken from Book I of Winnebago County Marriages in the Office of the County Clerk, at Rockford, IL., this being the first Marriage Register for this County.

Comparison was made to the work done in 1960 by Robert L. Steenrod, Belvidere, Illinois - the 'print out' and the original records. Microfilming of the early records are in process in the County Clerk's office in 1975. My appreciation to these fine people for their cooperation and courtesy.

Every attempt has been made to correctly interpret the hand writing of these early county clerks.

By giving the name and date, you may request a copy of the marriage license for a fee of $2.00. Address : County Clerk's Office, Winnebago County, Rockford, Illinois.

All dates shown are the Date of Marriage with the exception (*)where only Date of License is shown in the Marriage Book. The Coding as shown refers to (JP)Justice of Peace(Page 157-158) (MG) Minister of the Gospel(Page 159-161). These are not alphabetized any other place in this book.

CASE OF PAULINE RAMIRES.—Pauline Ramires, a Mexican woman, charged with having robbed Isabella Mack of a lot of gold coin and jewelry, amounting to over $110, was examined in the Police Court on Wednesday. The circumstances of the theft were stated in the Bulletin of Tuesday. Isabella was packing up her trunk to leave the city, when Pauline pretended to be sick, and while the other had gone after water for her, opened the trunk, as is alleged, stole the property, and made off. It appeared in evidence, that a part of the property at least, was found in Pauline's room and from appearances, there was little doubt of her guilt. She was sent to the Court of Sessions, and required to give $500 bail, before she could be released from custody.

STEPHEN MACK, FIRST SETTLER OF WINNEBAGO COUNTY.

By Cornelius Buckley.

Previous to the year 1832 the region designated the Rock River Valley was practically unknown to the general public. The mining country in Illinois and Wisconsin contained a few embryo settlements in the early 20's. At different points on the banks of the Rock River a shifting trader's cabin might be seen during the first quarter of the nineteenth century. The names of some of those traders are known to us; but they cannot be classed as permanent settlers. With the advent of the latter their occupation ceased. They were not tillers of the soil or builders of towns and villages. They finally followed in the wake of the Red man across the great river and prairies to the foot of the Rocky Mountains.

John Dixon, the founder of the present city of that name, has pretty generally been distinguished as the first permanent settler of Rock River Valley; and for the apparent reason that local historians and authors of county histories, either from want of knowledge, or by reason of a sense of false modesty, have never asserted the prior claim of Stephen Mack of Rockton and Macktown.

In recent years different sketches, more or less mythical in character, concerning Mack's career on Rock River have been recited at old settlers' meetings, and have appeared in the public prints.

His few intimate early associates who probably knew something of his personal history—Robert J. Cross, Jesse Blinn, and others—have long since passed away. From what we do know concerning his personality, we may fairly conclude that he was of modest demeanor and inclined to be non-communicative in regard to his family, his youth, and early adventures in the West.

Owing to the fortunate result of a correspondence with Mrs. Lillian D. Avery, Secretary of the Oakland County Historical Society, Pontiac, Michigan, and Mrs. Carrie Mack Newberry of Pontiac, the youngest daughter of Stephen Mack of Macktown, the writer is able to lay before the public some interesting facts and data not heretofore published, or even known in the vicinity, pertaining to the first settler of Winnebago County, Illinois, and likely the first settler in the Valley of the Rock River.

Stephen Mack came from good old Revolutionary stock. He was a native of Tunbridge, Vermont, born in the month of February, 1798, the son of Stephen Mack, Sr., and Temperance Bond of Gilsum, New Hampshire. The father of our subject, Colonel Stephen Mack, Sr., was a native of Lyme, Connecticut, where he was born in 1764, the son of Solomon Mack. Both father and son served in the Continental Army during the Revolution. After his marriage in 1788, Colonel Mack settled at Tunbridge, Vermont, engaged in mercantile business, and kept a tavern. He was commissioned a Colonel of a militia regiment, and took great interest in military matters. About the year 1807 he settled in Detroit, then a struggling frontier village, leaving his wife and twelve children in Vermont.

At Detroit he engaged in the mercantile business, including the fur trade, and for many years the firm of Mack and Conant was known and rated high among the enterprising mercantile establishments of the West. Colonel Mack was present and witnessed the humiliating spectacle of Hull's surrender of the fort at Detroit to the British in 1812. He served as trustee of the Village of Detroit and was a member of the reception committee on the visit of President Monroe to Detroit in 1817. He was a Director of the Bank of Michigan; and on the collapse of that institution his entire estate was exhausted to satisfy claims against a defaulting cashier whose bond he had signed. He finally settled on the present site of Pontiac, and became the founder of that city, where he built a dam, a grist mill, and a saw mill. He died at Pontiac on November 11th, 1826. Many of his descendants are well-known residents of Michigan at the present day. His family moved from Vermont to Detroit in 1822.

Many of his descendants are well-known residents of Michigan at the present day. His family moved from Vermont to Detroit in 1822.

His son, Stephen Mack, Jr., came to Rock River about 1822, settling at Grand Detour, and later at Bird's Grove, adjacent to the present site of Ho-no-ne-gah Park, two miles east of Rockton. Here William and Thomas Talcott found him on July 25th, 1835. A trader's license was issued to Mack to trade at Rock River on October 20, 1823, and again on September 6, 1824, and October 5, 1826, four years before the advent of Mr. Dixon. At Grand Detour he married a Potowatomie woman, Ho-no-ne-gah, said to have been the daughter of a chief. Later in life he had this Indian marriage confirmed by a ceremony before Justice of the Peace Hulin at Rockton. Eleven children were born to Mack and Ho-no-ne-gah as the fruit of this marriage, nine of whom reached adult years.

Ho-no-ne-gah, from all accounts, was an intelligent, thrifty, and industrious woman, neat in appearance and deportment, and very skillful in the use of the needle. She died at Macktown in July, 1847, leaving a child about one year old, now Mrs. Carrie Mack Newberry, of Pontiac, Michigan.

Mack continued in the fur trade at Bird's Grove until the autumn of 1835, when he settled on the bluff at the mouth of the Pecatonica, where in 1839 he erected a large frame residence still standing, and well preserved.

In this house he died suddenly on April 10th, 1850. Dark rumors were afloat in the neighborhood of Macktown for years, implying that his death was caused by poison, administered by a person—no blood relative—materially benefited by his death. He was buried by the side of Ho-no-ne-gah and a son Henry, a few yards from his house.

On May 19th, 1880, the remains of Stephen Mack, his wife Ho-no-ne-gah, and their son Henry, were removed from Macktown and re-interred in Phillips Cemetery, south-west of Macktown, where an appropriate tombstone marks their final resting place.

This act of benevolence was accomplished by his old friends then surviving, J. R. Jewett, William Halley, and R. R. Comstock.

This act of benevolence was accomplished by his old friends then surviving, J. B. Jewett, William Halley, and R. E. Comstock.

An interesting incident in the life of Mack, and which has been vouched for by one of his early friends, was the visit of Black Hawk and a band of his warriors to the trading post at Bird's Grove, on June 26th, 1832. A camp of Winnebagoes at the Grove entertained Black Hawk. Mack secreted himself on the island in the river, now owned by Philip Hauser, until the departure of the Sacs.

I can scarcely believe that Mack's life was in serious danger. He had great influence with the Winnebagoes, and very likely was personally known to Black Hawk.

During his long career in the Valley of the Rock River, Mack continued in the fur trade, disposing of his products to John Kinzie at Chicago, and Solomon Juneau of Milwaukee. At Macktown he built a spacious general store and conducted, with his cousin Merrill E. Mack, a general mercantile business. He also built at Macktown several private residences, none of which remain standing. He built a school house at Macktown, and the first bridge across Rock River in the State of Illinois, in 1843. This bridge was built with a draw, so that boats could pass up and down the Rock, and we well know that in Mack's day there was some steamboat traffic on Rock River. This bridge was swept away in the great flood of June 1st, 1851, and was never rebuilt. He served for years on the Board of Supervisors, and was one of the County Judges, under the old system at the time of his death.

Mack's children were well educated, and became useful members of society. His youngest daughter Carrie was taken in charge by the youngest brother of her father, Almon Mack of Rochester, Michigan, by whom she was raised and educated. She still resides at Pontiac, and has been Regent of the Pontiac Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

At the time of his death, Mack owned all of Section Twenty-three in Rockton township, south of the Pecatonica River, which with his Macktown farm, aggregated upward of one thousand acres. He received $5000.00 from the United States as an interest due by reason of his children's relations with the Potowatomie Nation.

In his will he provided for an equal distribution of his estate among his children.

Stephen Mack was a cousin of Joseph Smith, the Mormon prophet. His sister Almira Mack joined the Mormons at an early day, and followed their fortunes to Utah, where she was living as late as 1876. Mrs. Mack, the mother of Stephen, joined her daughter Almira in 1846, and continued to reside with her until her death about 1856.

The want of more detailed information regarding this worthy citizen and first of pioneers is to be deeply regretted. His native modesty forbade his keeping a diary, and Rockton had no historical society to preserve a record of the interesting incidents in the busy and enterprising life of Stephen Mack. We may justly deplore the indifference which produces so regrettable a condition, while we endeavor to profit from the sad example.

Dear Fran,

Thank you for your recent donation of $25.00 Your support is very much appreciated.

Recently I reread the information you sent last year, a fresh eye sometimes finds things overlooked the first time through. I really didn't learn anything new, but was interested in the letter from Dorothy Mitchell stating that Caroline Mack was Senator Newberry's wife and that he was a scoundrel involved in the Teapot Dome scandal. So I researched that on the internet - interesting but not so.

You'll be the first to know if we learn any more about the elusive Isabella Daniels Mack.

Thanks again,

STEPHEN MACK, JR.

Vol 11 #3 1989

Stephen Mack, Jr., son of Colonel Stephen, grandson of Solomon, great-grandson of Ebenezer, great-great-grandson of John Mack, who came from Scotland in 1680, was born February 2, 1798 in Turnbridge, Vermont. He died April 10, 1850 at Macktown, Illinois (now Rockton). Stephen, Jr. was educated in schools in Vermont. He went to Dartmouth College in New Hampshire in 1813-16. He served as a mercantile apprentice in the city of Boston. In 1816, he followed his father to Detroit, Michigan; here he was a scout at Fort Dearbourne in 1817-1818-1819.

It was while on duty with them that he met some fur-traders and learned that Rock River Valley was a fertile land and a good place to establish a trading post. Therefore, he came west as an agent for the American Fur Company. He traveled with his ponies, arriving at the Rock River near Janesville, Wisconsin. He then followed down the river until he came to an Indian settlement, known as 'Tuttle Village', near the present Beloit, Wisconsin junction at Turtle Creek. Here he learned of the friendly Winnebago Indians' camp at Bird's Grove. He started out to find it was the directions he gathered from the tribe, but taking the wrong trail, he went on down the river until he finally reached a Pottawatomie Indian village at Grand Detour, Illinois.

Here he located for two or three years (1820-1822), trading with the Indians, taking furs in exchange for his articles of traffic, and carrying his merchandise to and from Chicago on the backs of his ponies. While living here, he contracted a fever and was nursed back to health by the Chief's daughter, Hononegah; he later married her in an Indian ceremony. He gave the Chief two fine horses and saddles and two blankets for Hononegah. In later years, he married her again legally by a Justice of the Peace.

Mack's relation with the Pottawatomie tribe was not productive of the best feeling, even though he had taken the daughter of the Chief for his wife; his life was still in danger, because he refused to sell firearms and liquor to the braves of the tribe. During one of his trips to Chicago with three of his ponies, a plan to dispose of him on his return; Grey Fox was determined to be the instigator. Hononegah learned of their intentions, so she was a lookout for her husband's return. She met him far out from camp and told him of the danger. It was decided they would leave without even returning to the camp. Together, they started for the Winnebago Indian village in Bird's Grove, which now is Hononegah Park, near Rockton (Illinois). They were welcomed by the tribe of Indians and promised protection. It became their home for the years 1822-1834. Some of their many children were born there. Mack was issued a trader's license on the Rock River from October, 1823 through 1834.

Hononegah was a very faithful and devoted wife to Steven Mack, and was absorbed in the care of her home and children. She was skilled in the care of the early settlers who became ill and with her supply of nature's remedies, she cared for their ills. She also helped the poor and destitute. She delighted in doing good. Hononegah always dressed in the costume of her tribe. She died of a fever in July, 1847 at childbirth; her baby also died. She left nine children, the youngest just a year old. The oldest daughter, Rosa, took over the care of the younger children and the running of the home.

With the indication of a speedy settlement of Rock River Valley, Mack conceived the idea that the bluff at the mouth of the Pecatonica River was navigable for one hundred miles from its mouth; he believed the Rock River was navigable for a hundred and fifty miles up into the territory of Wisconsin. With this large prospect in view, the mouth of the Pecatonica River was a very desirable location for a town. Mack purchased 1,100 acres of land in the fall of 1835, and permanently resided there until his death in 1850.

Since Mack owned all the land within the town, he built first a store, then many houses. In 1839, he built his home. The show place was built with the first stone foundation in the country; it was painted, which was considered a luxury for that period

Mack's relation with the Potawatomie tribe was not productive of the best feeling, even though he had taken the daughter of the Chief for his wife; his life was still in danger, because he refused to sell firearms and liquor to the braves of the tribe. During one, of his trips to Chicago with three of his ponies, a plan to dispose of him on his return; Grey Fox was determined to be the instigator. Hononegah learned of their intentions, so she was a lookout for her husband's return. She met him far out from camp and told him of the danger. It was decided they would leave without even returning to the camp. Together, they started for the Winnebago Indian village in Bird's Grove, which now is Hononegah Park, near Rockton (Illinois). They were welcomed by the tribe of Indians and promised protection. It became their home for the years 1822-1834. Some of their many children were born there. Mack was issued a trader's license on the Rock River from October, 1823 through 1834.

Hononegah was a very faithful and devoted wife to Steven Mack, and was absorbed in the care of her home and children. She was skilled in the care of the early settlers who became ill and with her supply of nature's remedies, she cared for their ills. She also helped the poor and destitute. She delighted in doing good. Hononegah always dressed in the costume of her tribe. She died of a fever in July, 1847 at childbirth; her baby also died. She left nine children, the youngest just a year old. The oldest daughter, Rosa, took over the care of the younger children and the running of the home.

With the indication of a speedy settlement of Rock River Valley, Mack conceived the idea that the bluff at the mouth of the Pecatonica River was navigable for one hundred miles from its mouth; he believed the Rock River was navigable for a hundred and fifty miles up into the territory of Wisconsin. With this large prospect in view, the mouth of the Pecatonica River was a very desirable location for a town. Mack purchased 1,100 acres of land in the fall of 1835, and permanently resided there until his death in 1850.

Since Mack owned all the land within the town, he built first a store, then many houses. In 1839, he built his home. The show place was built with the first stone foundation in the country; it was painted, which was considered a luxury for that period of time. He established a ferry across the Rock River about 1838. Charges for crossing the river for a horse and wagon was sixty-two and a half cents; each footman was sixty-six and a half cents, a single wagon and one horse was thirty-seven and a half cents; and a man on a horse cost twenty-five cents. In 1842 and 1843, Stephen Mack built a bridge at his own expense. On June 1, 1857, the bridge was destroyed by a flood. It was not replaced, as a bridge had been built a mile down the river at what was to become the town of Rockton.

Stephen Mack was a well-educated man with executive ability. He took an active part in the formation of the new country and its development. By Indian Treaty agreement with the government, half-breed children had a certain amount of land or its equivalent in money. By settlement with a government commissioner, Mack received about $5,000 on account of his children by his Indian wife. At the time of his death, he owned about one thousand acres of the Pecatonica River.

In 1838, the first steamer - called the Gypsy - came up the river. Mack put out a stake for it to tie up to, but George Stevens, who lived on the other side of the river, put out a stake also. The Gypsy tied up to Mr. Stevens' stake. A big dance was held on board the boat, but with so many people on board, the boat sank below the water line and the entire floor was ruined.

To insure that there would be no question as to the legality of his marriage, and to make his children full heirs according to the law, Stephen and Hononegah remarried on September 14, 1840 by a Justice of the Peace, William Hulin.

Mack was elected Associate Justice in 1849, holding the office as long as he lived. He was appointed the first township treasurer of the school fund. At this time, Waite Talcott, Henry O. Brown, and William Halley were the township trustees. On the adoption of the township organization in 1850, Mack was a candidate for the first supervisor. He was defeated by a few votes by his rival, Sylvester Talcott.

After the death of Hononegah in 1847, Steven Mack married a widow, Mrs. Daniels, who lived near Harrison, Illinois. She had seven sons and one daughter. Mack made his home with her and her children.

The children of Steven Mack and ~~Hononegah~~ kept house for themselves six miles DANIELS away in the trading post and home. The older sons were in the military, owned property, and helped care for the younger children.

Steven Mack died suddenly on April 10, 1850. He was buried on his farm beside his beloved Indian wife, Hononegah. A son, Henry Clay Mack, eight years old, was MACK also buried on the farm burial ground. Friends of Steven had the bodies removed to a plot in Phillips Cemetery, near Harrison. In 1965, the remains were again interred back on the farm near the Steven Mack house. Winnebago County bought the home and land for a forest preserve, which became the Macktown Forest Preserve.

The Rockton Historical Society was formed, and a museum was opened at the Steven Mack Home. This was opened to the public in June, 1956. It has been filled with articles of the past, which were found in a home and trading post of the period 1841 to 1846.

Family is but a budding tree
With braches spreading around us.
One leaf falls, a new one grows
New generations all around us.

Oh, the memories of old
Some not told the hardships
And want and loneliness
Some happiness brought
And lovely memories thought
As time swiftly flows among us.

Many years go by one by one
Young and old are gone.
More buds are sprung.
Winter, Spring, Summer, and Fall,
The leaves change - "Don't we all"

About FamilySearch Pedigree Resource File

The Pedigree Resource File is a new lineage linked database of records available on compact disc containing family history records submitted by individuals through FamilySearch Internet Genealogy Service. Family information is organized in family groups and pedigrees and includes submitted notes and sources. Many charts and reports can be printed from this data. Each disc contains about 1.1 million names. With the publication of every five discs, a master index for those discs will be published and packaged with that set of discs. With the publication of every 25 discs, a master index for those discs will also be published and packaged with that volume of discs. Discs may be purchased as sets or volumes.

HEAR YE HEAR YE! The Gathering Historical Re-enactment once again brings to life the days of the early Illinois frontier!

This settlement founded in 1829 by Stephen Mack was originally "Pecatonic". A thriving community of about 300 people, it boasted numerous buildings, including Mack's home & store, a furniture shop, school, tavern, shoemaker's shop, trappers' cabins and more. Macktown is now a National Historic Site.

Ongoing archaeological excavations have brought to light many historic period artifacts. They are on display in the Education Center. Also on display are prehistoric artifacts of the Native peoples that occupied this site for thousands of years. Don't miss seeing this collection!

Come see and talk to voyageurs, trappers, traders, Native Americans, settlers and craftsmen, who have gathered together at Macktown to trade news and goods. There's black powder shooting, tomahawk throwing, skirmishes and demonstrations of old time crafts and life-ways. Seek out exciting interactions at the Whitman Trading Post, Native American camps, the Mack House, voyageur camp, and more!

It's a terrific time for the whole family! Period foods and crafts are available for purchase as well.

Admission is only $5.00, with children 6 and under free.

Parking is on-site at Macktown Forest Preserve. Attendants will direct traffic to the designated parking areas. People with handicaps should let the attendants know so they can be accommodated

Note: Access to this National Historic Site is not ADA compatible, so arrangements should be made for negotiating the terrain of the site.

Operated in partnership with the Winnebago County Forest Preserve District.

2008 Tour de Mack Fundraiser Ride a Success

Well folks, he did it! In September, 2008, Dale Reeves rode over 420 miles from Pontiac, MI to Macktown in a re-creation of the journey Stephen Mack, Jr. made when he came to northern Illinois where he founded the settlement of Pecatonic (what is now Macktown).

The ride raised some nice funds and garnered great public awareness for Macktown Living History. Thanks to our many corporate sponsors and donations from the public, we'd have to say it was a terrific success!

Dale left from the gravesite of Stephen Mack, Sr. in Oakwood Cemetery in Pontiac on Saturday, September 6, and had pretty smooth sailing through Michigan, Indiana and into Illinois with a bit of a delay at the end due to some pretty wet weather.

Macktown Living History's offerings just get better with time!

Whether you are into archaeology, antiques, gardening, history, quilts or canoes, Macktown has something for everyone.

SEPT. 2009

By Linda Sonneson

Macktown Living History offers a unique experience each year. Area residents can sign up for a day of archaeology where they can actually participate in digging up history. Macktown is a site rich in artifacts, having first been home to Native Americans 8,000 years ago, later an historic settlement of early settlers. The land holds many secrets, found only by laboriously sifting through time. July finds people from many different backgrounds toiling under the sun and enjoying every minute of it. One day is set aside for the younger generation, letting them experience the excitement of a find. The largest artifact found in 2008 was an almost whole dinner plate from the Bates house. In 2009 the Wm. Shores property will be started. A son, Aaron, built the coffin and fenced Stephen Mack's grave in 1850. A bill for those services has been found and replicated.

Macktown has different events throughout the year. Our annual Macktown Roadshow has been very popular and will be held again this year on October 10th. We have several appraisers who return each year, the doors open to an eager crowd and a day of fun begins. Family treasures are brought in for everyone to see and enjoy, pleasant surprises await those who find that white elephant is really a valuable possession. Coffee and goodies are available.

Every first and third Sunday finds volunteers in the Heritage Garden, busy weeding, picking and talking. The garden is very popular with visitors and volunteers alike. Where else can you be enjoying an evening stroll, find someone working in the garden, and leave with enough celery for a pot of soup? Or an heirloom tomato?

Caring for historic buildings is a thrill all the volunteers share. The buildings are cleaned and arranged for various events, staffed by dedicated people who enjoy history. During scheduled events you may find Stephen Mack, Hononegah and their family of small children in residence. The children will be playing, running in and out, and generally doing what any family would have done during the pioneer days.

The Whitman Trading Post offers a glimpse into the past and how the people in a village obtained the necessities for everyday life. No Walmart for them!

And the little cemetery bears mute evidence to the hardships of life on the frontier. A doctor was close by, but death stalked each family. The pioneers had to be tough, if a husband or wife died the surviving mate usually remarried soon. There were children to raise, crops to tend and a life to be lived. When Hononegah died in September of 1847, Stephen by his own admission in a letter, needed someone to care for his children. He married again the following February.

Macktown's 1830's Christmas Breakfast is always popular, and has grown over the years. Period foods are served by volunteers dressed in 1830-1850 style clothes with music and singing as a background.

Fund raising goes on to build the Stevens Shop which housed the first schoolroom in the area, along with the shop, a granary and a dwelling. The original building was moved to Rockton in about 1857, now it has been disassembled and will be built on the original site.

Another project started in 2009 is the reprinting of "Carrs History of Rockton". In partnership with Rockton Township Historical Society and Balsley Printing, funds are being gathered to offer the book to the public. For a $50 donation your name will be added as a sponsor. In the back of the book will be a few corrections that have come to light over the years.

A Macktown quilt was finished in 2008, it is now covering the rope bed in the Mack house. The sheet bearing all the names of people who sewed is framed and on display next to the bed.

This year we have 2 big hands-on projects going on, one being the dugout canoe. A 7 ton log will be hewn out and on display. More wigwams will be built, adding to our village. Both of these projects will depend on volunteers to build.

Volunteers are the heart of Macktown. We welcome anyone who has an interest in history or archaeology, or who just wants to be a part of a group of people with varying skills who are always doing something interesting and fun. We offer chances at gardening, event organization and staffing, general office work, decorating, baking, or even being a docent to welcome and guide visitors around Macktown. There is always something to do! Call the Education Center at 815-624.4200 or email us at macktown1@verizon.net

2008's Archaeological Excavations Focused on the Bates House

Sept 2009

Excavating the Bates House foundation

Archaeology is an active part of Macktown's development--starting with a systematic survey of 30 acres in 1993 and continuing with excavations at concentrations of historic and prehistoric artifacts--archaeology has helped paint a picture of land use over thousands of years. Excavations are conducted by professional archaeologists, summer field students from William Rainey Harper College and from Elgin Community College and by adults and younger participants in special one-day field programs sponsored by the Macktown Living History and Education Center. For the past few years archaeological excavations have centered on the remains of the Henry Bates house.

Henry N. Bates, a shoemaker by trade, was born in Massachusetts in 1803. At some point, Bates traveled to Pennsylvania where he met Mary Lillie (born 1809). They were married in 1826 and had three children: Rhoda Satina (b. ca 1827), Erastus Spelman (b. ca 1831) and Jonathan Calvin (b. ca 1834). The Bates family arrived in Winnebago County from Pennsylvania in time for the 1840 census. The Bates household is recorded in the census near households of Stephen Mack and many other residents of Macktown, among them M. Ormsby, John Pelky, George Stephens, William Hulin, Jesse Blynn and Daniel Fairchild.

As with many other houses built at Macktown, the fate of the Bates house is unknown. It may have been moved to Rockton or scavenged for building material. However, the 16' by 16' house foundation and cellar has been partially uncovered an excavated. The foundation is made from slabs of limestone, either dry-laid or with sand-lime mortar which has for the most part crumbled away. The foundation extends to approximately 3 feet below the present surface. The original height of the foundation is unknown; it may have extended several feet above ground (as does the foundation of the Steven Mack house) so that the cellar may have been deep enough for a person to stand upright. There is no good evidence for an external entrance into the cellar so that it was probably accessed through a trap door. The remains of a possible cistern were found at the northeast corner of the foundation. Only the top courses of limestone were excavated here so that the depth of the cistern and its method of construction are presently unknown. The cistern is however in the same position in relation to the foundation as the cistern found at the Whitman Trading Post.

Over 1,500 prehistoric artifacts and almost 5, 000 historic were recovered from excavations at the Bates house. Since all Macktown structures were built on much older Native American camp sites, the presence of stone tools, tool manufacturing debris, and ceramic pot sherds are expected in all our excavations. The Bates house area appears to have been used by Native Americans primarily from about A.D. 700 to A.D. 1000. Historic artifacts include fragments of tableware mostly made in England, but readily available on the American frontier in the mid-1800s; a limited amount of glass container fragments; a few eating utensil fragments; personal items such as buttons, clothing fasteners, corset stays and clay pipe fragments; and architectural items such as brick fragments, machine cut nails and window glass. The largest fragment of tableware found anywhere at Macktown to date, is a hand painted, blue edge decorated plate; about 40% of the plate has been found. Among other notable items is the top 1/3 of a Washington/American eagle flask made in Pennsylvania between 1820 and 1830. This bottle may have been one of the possession the family brought with them when moving west.

The full report on these excavations will be available to read at the Macktown Center and at the Rockford Library in May 2009. Artifacts from the Bates excavations will be on display at the Center in time for the Macktown Gathering. In July 2009 exploration for the remains of the William Shores house will begin. College and upper class high school students interested in the summer field school should contact Dr. Rochelle Lurie (815-568-0680) or consult the summer course catalogues at William Rainy Harper College or Elgin Community College. People interested in one-day excavation programs should register at the Macktown Living History Center.

Dale Reeves poses with the Tour De Mack mascot, Duffy, at the Welcome Fest held at Macktown Living History on September 14, 2008.

SEPT, 2004

Dale's trip took 6 days which covered over 420 miles through the back roads and cities of Michigan, by the dunes of Indiana, the downtown beauty of Chicago, past the suburbs and through the great northern Illinois farmlands.

Mostly the weather was good, but on the what was to be the last day of the ride, Saturday, September 13, there was quite the deluge. Dale decided to wait a day to see if the weather improved. It did not, but he decided to make a go of it anyway on Sunday the 14th. He experienced no flats or mechanical problems on his ride, but he said he sure could could have done without the rain the last day!

He made a stop at NorthPointe Wellness in Roscoe first, where he was welcomed by the staff that sponsored and trained him for his ride. Then he was on to Macktown, and the final stop at the grave of Stephen Mack, Jr. and Hononegah. Dale said it was great to see friends waiting at NorthPointe and Macktown Forest Preserve as he rolled in on Sunday. A Welcome Fest followed, attended by a more than a score of associates and friends.

Dale was featured for his ride in the Beloit Daily News, the Rockford Register Star, and on local television and radio. The Star closely followed his trek with daily updates he provided via computer. In turn, he was asked to speak about his ride and Macktown at several community gatherings, and is _still_ getting requests to do so!

Thank you, Dale, for your unique idea; your time, money and effort in planning, researching and riding the Tour de Mack. You're one in a million!

The entire board, staff and volunteers at Macktown Living History thank the Tour de Mack Corporate Sponsors.

Macktown ...stand in the presence of the past.

On a forested bluff overlooking the Rock and Pecatonica Rivers in Rockton are the remnants of Winnebago County's earliest settlement. It was founded in 1829 by Stephen Andrew Mack, Jr., and his wife, Hononegah. Macktown, then known as Pekatonic, represents a time and place of change on the Illinois frontier when the fur trade collided with a progressive world.

In prosperous times, Pekatonic boasted of the Mack's two-story home and store, a furniture store, a school room, a shoemaker's shop, a tavern, a trading post, fur trapper's cabins, and other homes belonging to the population of 300. A ferry and bridge traversed the Rock River.

Following Mack's death in 1850 and the destruction of the bridge in 1851, the Macktown settlement area failed to thrive. The northern part of the settlement prospered and officially became known as Rockton in 1844.

Macktown: A Living History Education Center Board and the Winnebago County Forest Preserve, which owns Macktown Historic District, have plans to restore Macktown to its 1830 - 1846 historic condition.

Buy a Brick ~ Macktown Heritage Campaign
Pave the way to the new Macktown Education Center

Over a hundred and fifty years ago a young man made his way to the Rock River Valley from the East. Educated and adventurous, Stephen Mack explored this area and traded with the numerous Native Americans of the region. During that time, he took a young, caring Hononegah as his wife and created a settlement, called "Pekatonic," located at the confluence of the Pecatonica and Rock Rivers in what is now known as the Macktown Forest Preserve.

4-25-2013

Now, you can help rebuild that settlement! Buying a commemorative Heritage Brick will help support this very important project. Construction of the Education Center walkway and Heritage Circle began in Spring, 2005.

Heritage Bricks are available in three sizes to include individuals, families, organizations and corporations. Memorials are welcome.

You can purchase as many bricks as you like, just fill out the order form and put your name down in history. You will be creating a lasting legacy that will help restore and preserve a key part of this region's past.

Macktown Living History

Winter 2012

The year 2011 brought new events and projects to Macktown—it was a busy year.

February 2011 was our annual Keeping Warm in the Winter, celebrating the birthday of Stephen Mack. The sights, sounds, tastes and aromas of long ago let visitors experience life as it was in the early 1800's. Volunteers prepared and served squash soup, Vermont baked beans, cranberries, stewed apples, smoked fish, cornbread and churned butter. Bagpipes and violin music entertained guests.

The Gathering was the last weekend in April. For Friday's Education Day, the sun was out, the weather was such a nice day, considering we had to cancel just one year before due to dangerous storm predictions. The Native American Village, Trading Post and Mack House were all open for visitors. Students were given an opportunity to participate in nineteenth century dancing, school rooms, and candle making to name a few. Macktown volunteers make a hot breakfast for the re-enactors who participate that day so everyone was able to relax over a cup of coffee before the weekend began.

July is archaeology month. Dr. Rochelle Lurie and a group of field school students to continued the dig at the William Shores site. Several units were opened and explored. One interesting unit revealed what appeared to be a wall or walkway leading in the direction of Mack's bridge. Perhaps this year we will know the answer!

A Quilt Fest was held all across the northern tier of Illinois. Macktown participated by having quilts on display July, August and September. The Indian Agency House in Portage, WI lent us a historic quilt top dating from the late 1830's, other quilts were loaned by local residents. A quilt raffle was held for 2 new donated quilts. The winners were Cris Workman and Sandy Ingram. Small porch quilts were painted by volunteers and displayed throughout the village. Fabric Quilt hangings were made by a Rockton Quilt Club and displayed in store windows. Several programs were offered on Saturdays, which were well attended. One titled "Meet Nancy" was very popular. Nancy is an 86 year old woman who started her "career" at 80. She is a very amusing lady and when contacted and asked if she would present her art work she replied" when is it?" and since it was several months in the future she said "I'm 86 years old you know—I don't even buy green bananas." That set the tone for her presentation

October was Macktown After Dark. Reenactors portraying the early settlers were at each site. When a walking group approached, the resident would turn up the wick on their lantern and greet them, say who they were, a short bio of their lives, then say when they died and conclude the conversation by turning away, saying it was late or some such and turning down the lantern. At the little cemetery, Hononegah spoke of her life and how old she was when she died. Henry Clay Mack who died when he was 9 just stood silently. Stephen Mack stood away from the cemetery and spoke of the land as he found it and how he had remarried to provide a mother for his children. Finally Isabella spoke as the maligned wife and walked away inviting people into the Mack home. Afterwards everyone gathered in the lower level of the Education Center for refreshments and to speak to the "sensitives" who accompanied the group.

We ended our year as we do every year with the 1830's Christmas Breakfast. This was our biggest year yet! This year, there was two new outdoor "diorama's" depicting nineteenth century life. One included our fur traders, and the other was our Native American women portraying tipi life. The food just gets better and better. Our favorite Scotsman played the bagpipes and the Dunagans also played period music.

Site Improvements

The Winnebago County Forest Preserve District contracted to have the Whitman Trading Post stabilized in the fall. The end toward the river is built on sand and was slowly settling and pulling away at the corners. Concrete pilings were put in place which will keep the historic building safe and secure for years to come.

The Winnebago County Forest Preserve District also leveled and laid sod on an area between the Education Center and Trading Post to accommodate more tipis during the Gathering. The new area will be the Plains style Native American Village. This allows the Woodland style Native American Village even more space to grow. Two new wigwams were erected this year, and due to a grant from Stateline Community Services, new mats have been added to the interiors. Work continues to complete projects for both villages.

The lower level of the Education Center has also seen improvements. It has been an unfinished utilitarian area with no ceilings. The Winnebago County Forest Preserve District contracted to have additional lighting, wiring and a dropped ceiling installed. We now have an area for classes, meetings and projects and the upstairs will be educational displays and events.

In 2012 we have many things planned.

Feb. 19th Sunday. We start the year with "Keeping Warm in the Winter" which is an annual event celebrating the birthday of Stephen Mack (Feb. 1798). The historic Mack house will be open, volunteers dressed in period clothes will offer refreshments (free but we cheerfully accept donations) interesting outside demonstrations including fire starting without matches, and cooking over an open fire – weather permitting. Fun for the whole family.

Throughout the year we have many events which have character portrayals. If you have an interest in being considered for one of these openings, please call 815.624.4200 and leave a message, a volunteer will return your call.

1. Hononegah: Stephen Mack's Native American wife, must be between the ages of seventeen and twenty-eight, have long dark hair and willing to commit to several weekends during the year.

2. Stephen Mack must be between the ages of 30 to 45 and willing to commit to several weekends during the year.

3. Children between the ages of eight and eighteen to portray Native American children as well as settler's children.

4. Adults and children to portray other prominent families from Pecatonic.

Macktown is adding to its Native American Village each year. We have 3 wigwams (Woodlands) and 2 tipis (Plains), a drying rack, dugout canoe, 3 Sisters Garden and a Medicine Wheel Garden. Volunteers are welcome to help with ongoing indoor and outdoor projects for the villages. Grand Opening will be in June 2012, but most projects will be showcased during the Gathering in April.

April 28 and 29. Our annual The Gathering, re-enactors demonstrate life and skills as they were in the pre-1850's. We are always looking for more people to demonstrate a skill or greet the guests.

WILL THAT BE CASH OR CHARGE?

Scene from the 2011 Gathering

July is archaeology month @ Macktown. Each year Dr. Rochelle Lurie conducts a field school at our historic site. Fridays the dig is open to adults, one Wednesday children ages 9-12 may participate. Pre-registration is required for a limited number.

All summer we have the gardens up and growing. The Heritage Garden is located adjacent to the Mack House, and the Three Sisters Garden and Medicine Wheel Garden are next to the Woodland style Native American Village. It is a nice stress reducer to come and sit in the garden and tend to the vegetables or herbs. And if you work on a few weeds, a trip to the gym for a workout is avoided. It is much more pleasant to listen to the hawks and other birds!

Fall Events

In October Macktown After Dark. A lantern light walk through time visiting with past residents at the site of their homes. Refreshments are served.

December is always the 1830's Christmas Breakfast which is held the first weekend in December. Volunteers dressed in period clothes serve food as it would have been prepared at the time of Pecatonic (now Macktown).

Capital Fund Drive

The year 2012 will bring a Capital Fund Drive to rebuild the Stevens house which had four rooms. One was a schoolroom. Mack felt education was very important even to girls and Native American children, He paid the teacher with his own money. The other rooms were a granary, a dwelling and a cabinet shop. The schoolroom was on the 2nd floor and reached by a set of outside stairs. During the winter of 1836 the stove in the schoolroom "took fire" and burned most of the upstairs, Mack rebuilt it "at great expense" to himself. (quotes from his letters). The Stevens building was taken down in the 1850's and rebuilt in Rockton at the corner of Franklin and Center Sts. - in 2007 the building was offered to Macktown. Volunteers took it down, saving only the post and beam construction frame; a beam with Stephen Mack's signature was discovered and is on display in the Education Building.

Did you know???

Did you know that Rockton also has a Historic Society? Rockton Township Historical Society is located at the corner of Green and Blackhawk north of town in "The Grout House". It was constructed of sand and rocks, plastered on the outside and scored to look like stone. With the passage of time the scoring has diminished but if you look closely you can still see the lines. Lucius Fassett was the first occupant. A carriage house has been added to the original structure to house the many artifacts on display. The Wagon Wheel display is very popular. Visitors love to walk from room to room commenting that their grandmother or mother had something "just like that". The Historical Society is open on Saturdays 10-2, April through September.

Spring 2012

Spring 2012

Our winter months were busy. April already.....

THE GATHERING

Macktown is busy preparing for our annual The Gathering, Aptil 28th & 29th. The site will come alive with re-enactors from many areas participating. We hope to see you there! It is a fun family event which people look forward to, with many grandparents saying they are bringing the 3rd generation to enjoy history.

Friday. April 27th is our Education Day when 4th & 5th grade students from area schools are invited to attend a day just for them, before the general public visits on the weekend. Demonstrations are scheduled and student groups move among the camps—it is a busy day for all.

We are adding more displays and demonstrations from our volunteers and could use your expertise and talents throughout the weekend.

IMPROVEMENTS

The Education Center lower level is now finished and looks very nice. A suspended ceiling, new lighting, tile floor and fresh paint have made it into a wonderful working room.

ARCHAEOLOGY

July is archaeology month. A field school-under the direction of Dr. Rochelle Lurie conducts digs all through the month—adults and children can participate one day a week under the supervision of archaeologists. There is very limited enrollment at $25 per person per day.

NATIVE ANERICAN VILLAGE

Our Native American Village is growing. We have wigwams and two tipi's. The tipi's have been moved to the Plains Native American Village to separate them from the wigwams in the Woodland Native American Village—since there were no tipi's here. A drying rack and summer kitchen are new additions. Sweet grass was planted and we should have a nice stand of it this year. The Three Sisters Garden and Medicine Wheel Garden are quite impressive.

MEMBERS

Macktown has welcomed several new members this year. We also thank all the renewing members—your support is very important to us. Monies from memberships are used to increase the educational programs that we offer to the community.

See page 2 for membership information.

TRADING POST

The Trading Post was beginning to show serious signs of structural damage. The Winnebago County Forest Preserve contracted with an engineering firm to have the building stabilized. The end toward the river sits on a deep sand bed and was slowly sinking and pulling away from the rest of the structure. Concrete was pumped underground to form a platform which will stabilize the river side of the building.

GRAND OPENING

September 8th & 9th will be our Grand Opening of the Native American Village and the newly stabilized Trading Post. Traditional foods will be served. Many of our volunteers will be in period clothing and sharing their talents with the public.

SOMETHING NEW

The last Sunday of each month will be a day to visit and see volunteers doing a project—whether it is cooking over an open fire, tanning hides, making soap or any of the every day tasks necessary for life in the early 1800s. Please contact us if you wish to participate.

FRENCHMEN'S FROLIC

Saturday, September 29th 9 a.m.—5 p.m. and Sunday 30th 9 a.m.—4 p.m. Please join us for a weekend of fun & history.

A voyageur landing, canoeing, tomahawk throwing, learning French phrases and the history of words during a workshop, blacksmithing, cordage, games, skillet throwing, auctions, paddle dances and music. Donations cheerfully accepted.

Volunteer Opportunities

GARDENING We welcome anyone who wishes to participate. We have three gardens, the Heritage Garden by the Mack house, and two in the Native American Village. We have been working on all three gardens, planning for plants appropriate for each area and doing the basic clean-up of spring. If you are interested in gardening, please see Lucy or Linda.

EDUCATION CENTER The building is staffed every Sunday with walking tours offered. We need docents. We also offer guided tours to groups during the week.

MAINTENANCE We have three buildings to be cleaned and maintained. General cleaning…..

REENACTING If you have a time appropriate skill you'd like to share on a Sunday please let us know. If you do not have period clothes, we have a wardrobe from which you may select an outfit.

SEWING We are always in need of someone who can sew.

ARCHIVES We have pictures from past events that need to be cataloged and put in albums.

Capital Fund Drive

The year 2012 will bring a Capital Fund Drive to rebuild the Stevens house which had four rooms. One was a schoolroom. Mack felt education was very important even to girls and Native American children, He paid the teacher with his own money. The other rooms were a granary, a dwelling and a cabinet shop. The schoolroom was on the 2nd floor and reached by a set of outside stairs. During the winter of 1836 the stove in the schoolroom "took fire" and burned most of the upstairs, Mack rebuilt it "at great expense" to himself. (quotes from his letters). The Stevens building was taken down in the 1850's and rebuilt in Rockton at the corner of Franklin and Center Sts. - in 2007 the building was offered to Macktown. Volunteers took it down, saving only the post and beam construction frame; a beam with Stephen Mack's signature was discovered and is on display in the Education Building.

THOSE BUSY WINTER MONTHS

The 1830s Christmas Breakfast was a lot of fun. The weather was crisp and cold. Live dioramas outside the large windows gave diners a view of Native Americans and trappers as they went about their daily lives. While guests drank coffee from the warmth of the room they could watch history come alive.

Keeping Warm in Winter was February 19th...which demonstrated how people lived during the winters and what they did to keep warm and to get through the cold weather. It was also to celebrate Stephen Mack's birthday, so he had a birthday cake this year. The weather was mild and we were able to have several demonstrations outside for the children to visit. A beaver trapper displayed his pelts, the Native Americans were in their village and horseback riders were part of the day. As usual, comfort food was offered in the Mack house with Stephen Mack & family in attendance. It was a very enjoyable day.

On a forested bluff overlooking the Rock and Pecatonica Rivers in Rockton are the remnants of Winnebago County's earliest settlement. It was founded in the mid 1830s by Stephen A. Mack Jr. and his wife Hononegah. Macktown, then known as Pekatonic, represents a time and place of change on the Illinois frontier when the fur trade collided with a progressive world. In prosperous times, Pekatonic was home to Mack's two story home and store, a furniture shop, school room, a shoemaker's shop, a tavern, the trading post, fur trapper's cabins and several other homes of the early settlers in this village. A ferry and bridge crossed the Rock River to the area now known as Rockton. Following Mack's death in 1850 and the destruction of the bridge in 1851, the Macktown settlement failed to thrive. The area north of the river prospered and officially became known as Rockton in 1846 or 1847.

History of Macktown, a Living History Center

This volunteer organization was originally founded as Macktown Restoration Foundation in 1990 for the purpose of preserving the Macktown historic site in Macktown Forest Preserve and funding restoration efforts. The site contains two original buildings remaining from the first settlement in Winnebago County: the Stephen Mack Home and the Whitman Trading Post. Macktown Living History is in partnership with The Forest Preserves of Winnebago County to restore these historic buildings and to implement a master plan for the site calling for the authentic recreation of the structures and landscape of Macktown (Pecatonic) as it was in the 1840s.

Macktown Living History has primary responsibility for the education programs and living history special events held at the site throughout the year.

Macktown is a nationally recognized historic site. It contains remnants of both historic and prehistoric cultures.

Archaeological digs and field schools are conducted each summer. Archaeology professors and students explore and share information with local and state museums, colleges and community schools.

Member support helps Macktown grow by assisting with capital improvements and acquisitions.

You're Invited to Make History a Part of Your Future!

Macktown, a Living History Education Center…

- History
- Preservation
- Education
- Archaeology
- Community

As you leave the Education Center you will be entering the National Historic District which encompasses two original buildings plus the site of continuing reconstruction of buildings that existed in the village of Pecatonic.

To your right is a Native American Three Sisters Garden. Its name comes from three staple crops, all Native American in origin, that are planted together. The first crop, corn, is planted in a mound. A few days later beans are planted and will grow using the corn for support. The third crop is squash, which will vine along the ground.

Next is a Woodlands Medicine Wheel Garden with the 4 color flags representing the 4 directions of the earth. Plants in each section correspond to the colors. Many plants have healing qualities.

Behind the gardens, the Native American Village area represents the Wodland culture prevalent in this region. Area tribes, such as the Winnebago and Potawatomi, lived in wigwams. Please look inside and visualize how life was with a whole family living and sleeping in that small area. Outside the wigwams you will find fire pits, a summer kitchen, drying racks and hides being processed. These items give you a sense of their everyday lives.

Just past the Native American area you will see a road leading toward the river to an old stone quarry. It's a good example of early quarrying, and we believe the stone for the Trading Post was quarried there. The quarry is also the site for black powder shooting demonstrations during the annual spring living history event known as The Gathering. Presently there is also a boat ramp by the quarry, but long range plans call for this to be moved to another site as the village is reconstructed.

You will enter Pecatonic on a gravel road that was once a bustling thoroughfare known as State Road. Pecatonic was laid out in a grid system along this road.

The State Road leads first to a limestone building known as the Whitman Trading Post. The Trading Post was built in 1846 as 2 gable ends later connected by a one-story segment. The fact that the end closest to the river is not set on bedrock, like the one nearest the road, has caused the building to lean severely over the years. Each large iron "S" connects to a rod which helps stabilize the building. No, they're not decorations. The Trading Post was used as a store and dwelling until 1851 or 1852. Across the road you will notice a barn structure. It was not original to the settlement, but was built in 2015 to help conceal he village's modern electrical box and water pump. It will also be used for special events and storage.

The Trading Post sits at the intersection of two principal roads through the village. One led to a bridge across the "Rocky River" built in 1843 by Stephen Mack, using his own funds. The bridge replaced a ferry run by Jesse Blinn. There is a sign by the river telling modern-day visitors what it cost to take Blinn's Ferry across the river. Stephen Mack, anticipating much steamboat traffic, built his bridge with a draw of 37½ feet… unfortunately only 2 steamboats ever came, and neither stopped at Pecatonic. After Stephen Macks' death in 1850, the bridge washed out in a freshet (flood) in 1851.

Returning to the State Road you will notice oak trees planted to help restore the original oak savanna. The abundance of oak trees that greeted the settlers helped them build and heat their homes. This and the availability of fresh water and river travel, enticed new settlers. At one time Pecatonic boasted 200-300 residents.

One of those residents was Henry Bates. On your right is a sign showing where his home and shop stood. Although no evidence remains above ground, archaeological digs have revealed the stone foundation.

Bates was a cobbler by trade. In a letter it is mentioned "…he had a nice framed house and shop and made boots and shoes. There were steps cut in the bank to get down to a spring…" The Bates came from Pennsylvania in 1840, had 3 children and lived in Pecatonic until 1851. Their son, Erastus, fished with Mack's Native American wife, Ho-no-ne-gah. She would sit in the canoe's bow with a fish spear while he paddled from the stern. The Bates family is a prominent name in the area, the direct descendants from Henry.

Near the end of the State Road to your left is the Stephen Mack Home. It is also the site of the quiet little fenced cemetery where Mack, Ho-no-ne-gah and their son, Henry, are buried. This is not their original resting place. At the time of their deaths, they were buried near the present- day Macktown Golf Clubhouse. After Pecatonic declined, the area was farmed, and the farmer made it known that the bodies would have to be moved or he would plow over the graves. Friends of the Macks had the bodies disinterred and moved to Phillips Cemetery near the town of Harrison.

The headstones you see were paid for by these same friends. Years later, after the property was purchased by the Winnebago Forest Preserve District, it was decided the family should be back where they had lived. So, for a second time, the bodies were disinterred and moved. Oddly enough, Stephen Mack's father (who helped found Pontiac, MI, and is buried there) was also disinterred and moved. What are the odds of that happening to both father and son!

Born in Vermont, Stephen Mack worked with his father as a young man in Michigan for the American Fur Company. When told by French Voyageurs that the Rock River Valley was rich in furs, he came here to trade, met and married the young Ho-no-ne-gah, and eventually purchased 323 acres to lay out lots for a town. Here he would build a home in which he and his wife would raise 9 children.

Stephen Mack's House was a fine home for its time. It was built in the basic Greek Revival style, constructed of a pegged timber frame. It was pained when new, a luxury at the time, and also had a full basement. A cistern in the basement made stored rainwater available by hand pump. The back kitchen Addition is not original to the house. Outbuildings existed when the Macks lived here, including a privy threshing barn built between 1844-1847.

Past the garden is the Sylvester Stevens' Residence and Woodworking Shop. This building was owned by Stephen Mack who used the upper level to store grain and as a schoolroom. This school was the first in the area, open to settler and Native American children alike. After Pecatonic went into decline, many of the buildings were torn down. This building was moved across the river to Rockton, where it stood for 150 years. It was donated to Macktown Living History in 2007. Volunteers then disassembled the building and an historian numbered the timbers. Some were exposed for view inside the building when it was reconstructed in 2015. An original beam signed by Stephen Mack is on display in the Education Center.

Education was highly important to Stephen Mack. He paid for the first teacher from his own pocket and made sure a school was eventually built in the village. He also made an offer of 20 acres of land near present-day Highway 75 for a female seminary.

Past the Stevens' residence, just before the gravel road makes a left turn, stood Mack's original store. Haye's Tavern stood across the road. It also was built by Stephen Mack and is believed to have been a double log cabin. It was not a tavern in the modern sense of the word, but was called that because of the Hayes' willingness to house and entertain travelers. In 1838 the Hayes moved out and the Blinns moved in (operators of the Ferry previously mentioned.) Archaeology digs at this site recovered part of a pipe bowl identified as being manufactured in Ohio, and the Blinns came from Ohio. A neat find!

On the riverbank in front of the Mack Home is an historic shell midden (a heap of freshwater mussels and other shells). It is near the confluence of the Rock and Pecatonica rivers. The midden is silent evidence of thousands of years of Native American presence…days spent digging the mussels (clams), opening them and discarding the shells. It is one of the largest existing shell middens in the Midwest.

The conclusion of your walking tour is to use your imagination to visualize what was and what will be chain as this historic site is redeveloped. We invite you to visit the Education Center to see the many historic and prehistoric artifacts and architectural plans for redevelopment of Pecatonic to its 1830-1850s conditions.

We hope that you enjoyed your walk back in time. Check out our website www.macktownlivinghistory.com or call 815-624-4200 for more information on tours, classes and events.

Dear Fran,

It was such a pleasure talking to you today! You are a wealth of information about the Daniels family and other historical facts related to Macktown. A person willing to take the time to do painstaking research and keep records to preserve history for future generations is valuable, and unfortunately sometimes rare.

I am enclosing a couple of Macktown brochures that you might find interesting. Our newsletter is still slow in coming since we are all volunteers and many of us still work part or full time. Your name is on the mailing list though, and you should receive one when it is ready. As we talked about, our resources have changed a bit since the last newsletters you received (we had a bank that sponsored the printing and a professional who volunteered to help us compose the newsletter), so it will look and read differently. Consider it a work in progress.

As we discussed, if you are able to send any information or pictures to Macktown, it would be greatly appreciated. I would be happy to reimburse you for any expenses...just enclose a note, no receipts necessary. To contact me personally, call (815) 964-6769.

Thank you again!

Sincerely,

Char Ferguson

MACKTOWN MONITOR

Macktown National Historical Site (Winter/Spring 2016)

From the President

2015 was an eventful year at Macktown. There were many new visitors to the site and a group of accomplished re-enactors have started working with us. On Sat., Dec. 5, as part of the Rockton's Christmas Walk Weekend, this group and our regular volunteers hosted an "1843 Christmas Eve at the Macktown Settlement". Many first-time visitors and families enjoyed time at the Mack House and Trading Post learning frontier Christmas traditions and even making ornaments. Many thanks to Nancy and Terry Sorchy for organizing this event.

Also, in December, The Forest Preserves of Winnebago County conducted their Board Meeting at the Education Center. We were pleased that they could come to the site to be updated on the status of our various projects.

Many of you may have notice that our website is in need of repair and updating. The Board recently agreed to hire the local firm of Shenkdesign to recreate our website, giving it not only a new look, but also making it compatible with smart phones and tablets. We are excited about the new changes and think Stephen Mack, always a forward-thinking individual, would approve.

Ray Ferguson, President

What's New in Archaeology?

Seven students from McHenry County College participated the 2015 Macktown field school. With instruction by professional archaeologists students continued excavations begun in 2014 along the Rock River in the area at Macktown called Shell Midden A (SMA). SMA is located down slope from the newly constructed Stevens Furniture Shop on the second terrace above the river. Excavations at this location in previous years uncovered substantial amounts of Native American artifacts. Geophysical investigation in both 2014 and 2015 by Dr. Phillip Carpenter's geology field school from Northern Illinois University suggested that undisturbed, sub-surface features such as hearths, processing pits and trash disposals might be found in the area.

Eight excavation units were dug in 2014 and parts of three features were uncovered. Seven additional excavation units were opened during the 2015 field school to expose the remainder of those features and new features encountered. During both field seasons students found that these intact features lay under a 30 to 50 cm thick layer of soil washed down slope from other prehistoric campsites and historic occupations. This slope wash contained artifacts from throughout the 19th and 20th centuries. These include Macktown era ceramics, glass, and nails as well as more modern barbed wire and a portion of a metal golf iron. No intact deposits were found that suggested the area was utilized by Macktown pioneers.

At the transition from the A Horizon (the dark, upper topsoil) to the B Horizon (yellowish clayey subsoil) five new prehistoric features were encountered in the area where geophysical investigations indicated they might be. All eight features have been found in an area 6 x 2 m, but we are confident that more features lie to the south and west. The features are remnants of holes dug into the subsoil by prehistoric people for a variety of purposes. When that purpose is fulfilled and the hole abandoned, the feature is filled in with a mixture of yellowish clay, dark topsoil and trash left behind by those people who lived in the area. Usually these features are identified as circular, mottled, silty or sandy sediment surrounded by homogenous yellowish clayey subsoil. Unfortunately, very few artifacts were found within the features suggesting that they were "cleaned" out. Useful items were kept by the people as they moved to a new location; only broken items or trash such as fire-cracked rock and charcoal from fires, fish or other animal bones, and by-products of making stone tools remain behind. Numerous rodent tunnels containing plastic nesting material were also found. The rodents seemed to prefer digging in the softer feature fill.

Although artifact analysis of the material is still ongoing, we know that the majority of artifacts found are from the Late Woodland period from approximately 600-1200 AD. The most common type of artifact found was lithic debris, pieces knocked off a larger piece of stone during the process of making stone tools such as knives, points, or scrapers. A small amount of prehistoric ceramic was collected, but the pieces are small and eroded.

Two very interesting artifacts were found, a stone axe of unknown age that probably was discarded because it had broken and an Early Woodland Wabesa projectile point that dates approximately to 3000 to 1500 years ago. Both of these were found in the slope wash above the Late Woodland features.

ORANGE MANGO BLAST

To understand the significance of these features and how they relate to others found in previous years, the Macktown field school will return in July of 2016. There will be volunteer days at the site so anyone interested in participating should contact Macktown Living History and Education Center.

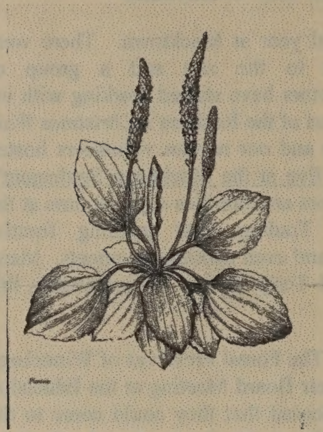
Curiosity Corner

Do you know what is growing in your yard?

One of the many wonderful plants that do grow in your yard is the Greater Plantain. Greater Plantain is a native of Europe; it grows everywhere, especially in lawns.



You might ask, "What is it good for, is it not just a weed?" What is a weed anyway?

A weed by definition is a plant growing someplace you do not want it. So, a rose could be a weed.

Getting back to what Greater Plantain is good for. Fresh leaves crushed and rubbed on the skin, will give immediate relief to insect bites and stinging nettles.

Fresh, as well as dried, that is made into an ointment has been used to stop the irritation of hemorrhoids. An infusion of the leaves is helpful as a diuretic.

The seeds (psyllium), the main ingredient of Metamucil, are good to use as a gentle laxative.

Recipe suggestions To make an infusion, use 1 tsp of fresh, chopped plantain leaves to 1 teacup of boiling water – allow to cool, strain and use, drinking one cup full a day.

Using psyllium seeds soak 2 – 3 tsp in a tumbler of hot water. Stir and drink when mixture thickens. Orange juice may be added to make it more pleasant tasting.

Remember that you may use plants from your yard ONLY if you have not been adding chemicals to it.

Did you know?

(Copied from a plaque by the Trading Post.)

"Great Indian Warrior/Trading Path

Near this location, passed the ancient Native American Warrior/Trading Path. First forged by animals finding salt and migrating with the seasons: later followed by hunters and traders, and finally by pioneers as they settled this area permanently. Used by French fur traders, Jesuit missionaries, and eastern pioneer settlers like Stephen Mack, Jr., trading with Winnebago, Sauk, Fox, Potawatomi, and others, as they built fords, trading posts, and farms. This Path network linked eastern and western paths and made a new nation possible."

Dear Fran,

Sorry it's taken me so long to answer your letter. Had a few hurricanes to cope with.

My married name is SCROGGIN -- 2gs and no s at end. I did go back through the Scroggin genealogy but no Sweets. Lots of John Scroggin s (it's a family name) but no Levins or Austins.

I am descended from Stephen Mack, Jr. whose first wife was Hononegah. James Gannon is also descended from this marriage, but from a different child.

My great grandmother was Rosa Mack, the eldest of their ll children. (first child and the last two died in infancy. Hononegah died on 5 Sept l847 at thirty years of age and her baby died the next day.

My grandmother Eliza Beatty Leonard was the only surviving child of Rosa Mack and Elisha Leonard. Their first child, a son, died in infancy.

\When I first corrresponded with Gannon, the family did not know that Rosa Mack and Elish Leonard had any suraviving children and were quite surprised at the large number of new family members.

Isabella Daniels Mack was born in l809. She was a native of PA, and lived in Michigan with her first husband where he died. She moved to Illinois with her ~~4~~ sons and ~~4~~ daughters. SHe and Stephen Mack, Jr. were married on 26 Feb l848. Her youngest son, 5, lived with them, but her older children kept house about six miles away. The two eldest children were in the military and also had property so were able to take care of their siblings..

I have no idea where Isabelle went after l850.

My main genealogical source has been the LDS Genealogical Library, either available at Mormon churches or on the internet.

They have a tremendous amout of information on all the Mack families, because . Joseph Smith, Jr.s mother was a Mack.

Sorry I don't have any more information.

Will include a list of the children I have listed for Stephen Mack - Hononegah. Maybe it will be of some help.

MARRIAGES FROM THE
ROCKFORD, IL, NEWSPAPERS, 1840-1869

Abstracted and indexed by

John L. Molyneaux

Local History and Genealogy
Rockford Public Library

INTRODUCTION

Compilation, research, editing and manuscript preparation of this book has been a one-man effort for well over two years. Every effort has been made for comprehensiveness and accuracy, though in the nature of things some errors and confusions must exist. I hope these are minimal.

USING THIS BOOK:

I. Newspapers. These marriage notices have been abstracted from the microfilms in the collection of Rockford Public Library, covering the period 1840 through 1869. The newspaper's name and date has been included with each entry. The following abbreviations have been used:

RDN= Rockford Daily News
Rep= Rockford Republican
RF = Rockford Forum
RFP= Rockford Free Press
RG = Rockford Gazette
RP = Rockford Pilot
RR = Rockford Register
RRD= Rock River Democrat
RRE= Rock River Express
RS = Rockford Star
WC = Winnebago Chief
WCC= Winnebago County Chief
WF = Winnebago Forum

It must be remembered that there are missing issues for most of these papers. One particularly noteworthy gap is in the first six months of 1852, from which no newspapers have apparently survived. There are also entries which are incomplete, or virtually so, due to wear on the film or just poor work with the microfilm camera. In many cases these entries have been identified using other sources, but some remain mysterious. The most severely damaged entries are listed in the index under Damaged Entries.

II. The entries. All reported marriages are given an entry number and arranged in numerical order. The index referes to the entry nymbers. In cases where a marriage was reported in two or more newspapers, there will be two or more entry numbers following the name in the index.

III. The information. All data useful for genealogical purposes has been abstracted: dates, names, places, statements of relationship, etc.

IV. Accuracy of information. The goal has been to present information exactly as reported in the newspapers. Thus it is possible for conflicting data to appear when two or more newspapers report the same marriage. In these cases, the researcher will have to consult other sources to establish the proper reading.

V. Names. Newspaper accounts often use nicknames and non-standard spellings of surnames (due to ignorance or misprints). When searching for a particular marriage record, use all possible spelling variants of a name.

In cases where a surname is spelled differently in different newspaper accounts a standard spelling has been established by checking published marriage records for Winnebago, Boone, and Ogle Counties. It is thus possible to find spelling of a name in an entry different from the spelling in the index. The index spelling reflects either (A) the spelling reported in the newspaper; or (B) the usual or most common spelling established by comparison with other records if the newspaper accounts are inconsistent.

newspapers of the 1850s

INTRODUCTION

The newspapers covered in this study and the dates they were published are as follows:

RF = Rockford Forum, through 10 Dec 1851
RRD= Rock River Democrat, 8 Jun 1852 through 1859
Rep= Rockford Republican, 3 Jan 1855 through 1859
RR = Rockford Register, 15 Feb 1855 through 1859
RDN= Rockford Daily News, 8 Feb 1859 through 1 Oct 1859

All save the last were weekly papers. PLEASE NOTE that there is one large gap in coverage, between 10 Dec 1851 and 8 Jun 1852. It should also be remembered that there are other gaps in the newspaper coverage, when various numbers of the newspapers are missing. While this list of obituaries is extensive, it cannot be understood to cover all the published obits in Rockford in this period because of these missing issues. Furthermore, not everyone dying in the area, particularly in the county outside the city of Rockford, was the subject of even a short obituary notice. Not finding a name on the list does not mean the individual was not in the area in the 1850s.

All genealogically significant data has been extracted from the obituaries.

Painful Accident. Mr. Geo. J. Ames, residing near the village of Rockton, met with a severe and probably fatal accident on Friday, the 30th ult. In driving a team, a loaded rifle in his wagon some way fell through a hole in the bottom, the hammer caught, and an ounce ball was driven through his thigh, coming out at or near the hip, shattering the bones very badly. Amputation was deemed impossible, or as involving his life, which it was not expected would long continue in any event, and it was therefore not attempted. At the last accounts he was alive, but was not expected to live long.—Beloit Jour.

We learn that the sufferer expired on Saturday last, having survived the accident for more than a week.

ILLINOIS REGIONAL ARCHIVES

Secretary of State

Research Policy

The Illinois Regional Archives Depository System (IRAD) encourages use of its collection by researchers interested in family and local history. In-person, mail and telephone research requests will be handled by IRAD staff at the seven regional depositories.

Visiting a Depository

Researchers may visit an IRAD depository and examine the records that are available. The seven IRAD depositories are open Monday through Friday. Depositories are closed on Saturdays and Sundays, state holidays, and any weekdays the university libraries are closed. Hours are reduced in June and July. Researchers are urged to call before planning a visit to a depository. Consult the reverse side for individual depository hours.

Requesting a Search

IRAD welcomes mail and telephone requests from researchers interested in genealogy and local history. In order for depository staff to conduct a search of the IRAD holdings, researchers should provide the following information:

1. The full names of the persons they are researching;
2. The approximate year when these persons are expected to appear the records;
3. The county which created the records;
4. Record titles/types to search.

Include any additional information that may assist in locating the person or information requested (such as township or precinct for searches of tax and election records.)

Researchers are also asked to limit requests to two (2) names at a time and to wait for a response to one request before submitting additional requests. Inquiries should be sent directly to the depository holding the records of the county to be searched.

Obtaining County Listings

The types of local government records held by IRAD vary from county to county. Listings of county, township and municipal records held at the regional depositories are available upon request. The listings are arranged by county and sorted by office and record title within each county. Please limit requests to five (5) counties at a time. County listings and additional information about the IRAD System may be obtained from: Information Services/IRAD, Illinois State Archives, Archives Building, Springfield, IL 62756. Telephone: (217) 785-1266.

Fees

The research services of the IRAD System are provided at no charge through the courtesy of the Secretary of State. Therefore, when requesting information by mail, a self-addressed, stamped envelope is not necessary. However, there may be a photocopy fee, for which you will be billed. Unless an expenditure limit is set in advance by the researcher, authorization to produce photocopies will be requested for billings that exceed five (5) dollars.

Loan Policy

Because they are irreplaceable, IRAD records do not circulate and must be used in the depository. However, some census and death certificate microfilm may be borrowed from the Western Illinois University depository for use at other IRAD depositories. Microfilm may not be borrowed through the interlibrary loan system.

Geo. W. Hewitt was the owner of the original town plat and laid out the village in the fall of 1854. Several other additions were subsequently made, two by the Railroad Company, three by Mr. Hewitt, and one by John Meyer.

The first buildings erected were a depot and a house for boarding railroad employes. These were erected in the fall of 1854. In the winter following John J. Hewitt erected a small warehouse for grain and purchased and shipped the first from this point. These were all the buildings erected on the town plat in 1854. Early in the spring of 1855, or late in the winter previous, a German by the name of Shuey erected a building designed for a stable, but into which he moved his family until he could erect a dwelling house. When John J. Hewitt and others came in the early spring of 1855, Mr. Shuey was living in this stable, and here he boarded a number of the early settlers. Rel OGLE Co

The next building erected was also during the early spring of 1855, by Mr. Daniels, who opened a small stock of groceries therein. Mr. Daniels was the first postmaster. He remained in business but a short time. see over WILLIAM F.

Theodore Hewitt, a son of the founder of the place, erected the first dwelling house in the place in the spring of 1855. This house was framed in Chicago and was soon raised after the material was on the ground. It was used as a tavern. Mr. Hewitt died in the summer of 1855 of typhoid fever, and was the first adult person to die in the village or probably in the township.

Thomas Botdorf soon developed into a first-class wagon and carriage manufactory, and for many years a very large business was done by the proprietor. In 1868 Mr. Botdorf sold to Salter & Hunter, who continued till 1873, when the present firm of Salter & Blair was formed. The firm is well known, and its work is always first class. A corn-planter manufactory, a planing-mill and a flouring-mill have also been operated here.

The post office was established here in the spring of 1855, with Wm. F. Daniels as Postmaster. He held the office but a short time, and was succeeded by Samuel Mitchell, who served till 1861, when Matthew Blair was appointed, and continued in the office four years. Samuel Rockwood was the next incumbent, and was succeeded in turn by John C. Galbraith, Dr. Thomas Winston and Dr. J. D. Covell, the latter receiving his commission in the fall of 1885.

BANKS.

J. B. Kimball and B. C. Whitlock started a private bank in 1867, known as the Bank of Forreston. They continued about four months when J. J. Hewitt purchased Whitlock's interest, and the firm of Kimball & Hewitt continued about one year when J. J. Hewitt purchased Kimball's interest and continued alone until 1872, when he sold to Reuben Wagner, of Polo. Mr. Wagner secured as a partner Mr. McClure, the firm of Wagner & McClure continuing some six years, when Mr. Wagner became sole proprietor, continuing the business alone until his failure, in the summer of 1885.

The Farmers & Traders' Bank was started by J. J. Hewitt June 1, 1880, in a room over the Bank of Forreston. In 1882 Mr. Hewitt erected the present

ILLINOIS

FORRESTON.

George W. Hewitt came to this county in October, 1848, from Pennsylvania, and entered a bounty claim. In 1854, he bought the site of Forreston of John Dement. The town was an outgrowth of the Illinois Central Railroad. The original town, now forming the western part of the village, was laid out in the Fall of 1854, on Mr. Hewitt's land. The Railroad Company made two additions, one in 1855, the other March 8, 1861. Mr. Hewitt made three additions, the first, November 14, 1861. West Forreston was laid out April 1st, 1868, by John Meyer.

The railroad had arrived in the Winter of 1854, and the first buildings erected were the depot and a house for boarding railroad employes, now occupied as a private residence by W. H. Robbins. In the Summer of 1855, Theodore Hewitt built a small boarding house on the site of the present Sherman House.

In the Winter of 1854, John J. Hewitt built a small warehouse near the depot, and shipped the first grain from Forreston.

In the Spring of 1855, Mr. Daniels built and opened a store, near the depot on the west side of the track, where he also kept the first post office. In the same Spring, Samuel Mitchell, who had come from Maryland to Lincoln Township, together with Jonathan Meyers, in 1837, and Matthew Blair, who came to Mount Morris from Pennsylvania in 1845, moved to the new village of Forreston with their families and built their residences. In this year, also, Mr. Hewitt brought his family from Pennsylvania, although he had previously built his residence.

In the Fall of 1855, Henry Hiller established the first store, of any importance, in the small building still standing just north of the Sherman House. This he sold to Mr. Woodruff, who in turn disposed of his business to David Reinhardt, in 1858. Mr. Reinhardt built the store now occupied by Hewitt & Rosenstiel in the same year, and continued his general store in that building.

In 1855, Mitchell & Blair established a store in a small building on the corner lot occupied by the present hardware store of Smith & Campbell, north of the site of that building. Thomas Botdorf began blacksmithing in the same year.

In the Fall of 1856, a meeting was held at Brookville for the purpose of organizing the Township, at which the Baileyville people contended that the Township should be named "Mendora." When the Central Railroad was built, this station had been named "Forreston," and the people of this village succeeded in securing that name for th eTownship. The first officers elected were, Matthew Blair, Supervisor, and M. B. Geer, Assessor. There were twenty-eight names enrolled on Mr. Geer's first tax book. The first school house was built in the same year.

In 1855, a warehouse was erected near the railroad, by Aaron Middlekauff and Martin Heller. Another was built by I. B. Allen in 1857. In this year, also, Fred Meyer began shoemaking, and soon after M. DeWall and John Lang followed in that business. The latter is still a boot and shoemaker of Forreston.

In 1858, Blair & Mitchell dissolved partnership, and Abram Sagers opened a hardware store in the room they had occupied.

About this time, John J. Hewitt and his brother-in-law, B. F. Emerick, opened a general stock of goods in the building which had been occupied as a tavern; and Robert Long opened a saloon near and opposite the depot, which was afterward burned down.

Dear Fran,

For the past few months I have been trying to put together the many strands of the Bowen-Daniel saga into a coherent story. Until I started on this project, I had not paid close attention to the extensive research that you have done on the descendants of James Daniel. I really enjoyed going through in some detail the material that you had collected and adding a bit to it. You'll note, for example, that I tried to find out what I could about the Chicago Democrat newspaper of which Joel A. Daniel was editor and publisher in 1880.

Enclosed is my attempt to put the whole story together. It is a first draft. It still needs a lot of work. I would appreciate it if you would check the manuscript for accuracy. I would also appreciate it if you would bring any additional info that you have available to my attention so that I might add it. Moreover, I would like your thoughts on what might be added or changed to make the story more interesting.

My tentative plan at this point is to gather up all of the documentation that you and other Daniel/Bowen researchers have assembled and add it to the narrative and then seek a publisher for the lot – a genealogical or historical society perhaps. Would you be willing to let me have copies of he documentation that you have gathered for inclusion? Certainly you will get full credit for having done the hard work.

You will note in the manuscript one issue on which I would like your specific comment. According to your research after James Daniel (b 1827) died, his widow married Joel A. Daniel. The question is, when did he die? You have that happening, I believe, about 1860/61 but letters in the possession of Don Snyder of Georgetown, Michigan, suggest that James was still alive after that. Have a look at what I have written and tell me what you think.

Looking forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Roy J. Adams

PS. I tried to call you in Florida and left a message on your answering machine but perhaps you were back in Michigan by then. I am sending this letter and manuscript to both addresses.

ROCKFORD FEMALE SEMINARY.

In 1844, at a convention of the Congregational and Presbyterian clergymen of Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin, which assembled August 6th, it was decided to found two institutions of learning, one for gentlemen, the other for ladies. It was thought best that they should not be located at the same place. Subsequently the college was fixed at Beloit, and the seminary at Rockford, on the pledge of the inhabitants of the latter city to contribute $3,500 for a building, and a suitable location.

A board of trustees was elected, who controlled both institutions. The first charter of the seminary bears date Feb. 25, 1847, but business interests interfered with the fulfillment of the pledges of the citizens of Rockford, and the matter was delayed for a time.

In 1849, on the 11th of June, Miss Anna P. Sill, the present principal of the seminary, with two assistants, began to teach a select school, whose excellence revived the interest in the seminary. Accordingly in 1850, $5,000 was pledged by the people of Rockford and vicinity for a building, while the ladies gave one thousand more for the purchase of the grounds upon which the seminary now stands. Miss Sill's school took the name of the Rockford Female Seminary, and was held in an old building on the east side of the river, formerly used as a court-house. Here, in September, 1851, the first class of fifteen passed their examination, a regular collegiate course of study having been granted by the charter.

After the acceptance by the board of trustees of the financial pledges of the people of Rockford, in 1850, it was thought best that each institution should manage its own affairs, but a co-operation of the two has been preserved by retaining several of the same members in each board of trustees.

Rev. Aratus Kent, a Presbyterian clergyman, as president of the board of trustees, on the 15th day of July, 1852, laid the corner stone of the present edifice. He it was to whom the enterprise is most indebted, having retained the presidency of the board until his death, in 1869. This building, now Middle Hall, was occupied in 1853, and cost $15,000, paid mainly by the people of Winnebago County.

Increased patronage demanded more room. Accordingly, in 1854, "Linden Hall" was begun, and completed two years afterward. It was named from the residence of one of its New England friends, from which place and New York the principal part of the funds were obtained with which it was erected.

In 1866, a third hall, with its connecting corridors, was begun, and finished the following year, at a cost of $21,000, secured mainly by donations from eastern cities, as well as renewed pledges from Rockford and vicinity. In 1871 "Linden" and Middle Halls were connected by a corridor, at a cost of $4,000, making a continuous brick front of 220 feet, with music and recitation rooms, library, labratory, geological cabinet, chapel, dormitory, dining-rooms, gymnasium, etc., all in the best condition for effective work.

Clar[illegible] Daniels then 1850

The present curriculum embraces a preparatory, classical and scientific course of instruction, while after the first year studies may be selected at the option of the student. Miss Anna P. Lill, the principal, is assisted by two gentlemen professors and fourteen lady teachers, whose departments are suited to the various needs of the pupils. The president of the board of trustees is Prof. Joseph Emerson, of Beloit, Wis.; the secretary, Rev. Frank P. Woodbury, of Rockford, Ill.

ROCKFORD PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The importance of such a fruitful means of education is appreciated in this county, and soon after the passage of the state law (March 7, 1872), authorizing cities to provide by a tax of one mill on the dollar for their establishment and maintenance, the city council of Rockford hastened to avail themselves of its privileges. In June of that year, an ordinance was passed, establishing a library and reading room for the general public. The mayor, S. G. Bronson, appointed the following directors: Melancthon Starr, Elias Casper, S. C. Withrow, D. S. Clark, Frank P. Woodbury, Henry C. Mabie, N. C. Thompson, J. G. Knapp, and C. L. Williams, who were to hold office for three years, three retiring annually. N. C. Thompson was elected President, and Elias Casper, Secretary and Treasurer, at the first meeting of the Board, on the 24th day of June, 1872. Two committees were appointed to select a room and prepare an appeal to the citizens for assistance to advance the enterprize, whose reports were subsequently carried out, by renting an apartment in Wallach's Block, now occupied by the Young Men's Christian Association, for $350 per annum, and the free distribution of the address as well as its publication in the city papers.

The reading room was nicely fitted up, and, on the occasion of the formal opening, a goodly number of periodicals having been provided, the Board called a meeting of the citizens, which was largely attended. On this occasion (Tuesday evening, July 2, 1872), $2,000 was subscribed, and Miss Mary B. Rankin elected temporary librarian. Among other donations at and before this time may be mentioned those of Mrs. W. P. Dennis, eighty-six volumes, thirty-eight being bound volumes of "Harper's New Monthly Magazine," from Volume I to XXXVIII inclusive, and that of H. P. Holland, sixty volumes of Universal History. At this time the library did not contain over two hundred volumes.

The general management of the rooms was delegated to the executive committee appointed at the August meeting of the Board, and the by-laws, rules, and regulations were adopted in September, as well as the election of the present efficient librarian, Mr. W. L. Rowland, whose appointment bears date Sept. 17th, 1872. On the 30th of this month. $2,000 worth of books were ordered. November of that year found 1,313 books in the library, six hundred and seven of which were acquired by donation, the remainder by purchase. From this date there was a steady increase in the number of volumes until the opening of the library for loaning, Feb. 1st, 1873, when there were 2,326 books which had been catalogued in writing, and 91 peri-
